The Authors Reply

To the Editor:—In reply to the letter of Dr. Bogomoletz, we believe that he has, in the second paragraph of his letter, given his own answer by stating that it is difficult to check every published paper and, in fact, not every reference is normally given in a case report. However, it is even more of a problem to update all the references at the time of proofreading. The last line of our introduction, therefore, should have been not the sixth case but the sixteenth.
