

Publisher's Note

This is to inform you, the reader, that Magnetic Resonance Materials in Physics, Biology and Medicine (MAGMA) is now published by Elsevier Science. Leaving the Editor-in-Chief, Associate Editors and the Editorial Board in place, and the affiliation with the European Society for Magnetic Resonance in Medicine and Biology (ESMRMB) intact, Elsevier Science has, however, with the full understanding and cooperation of the Editor-in-Chief, Associate Editors and the Editorial Board of the journal and the European Society for Magnetic Resonance in Medicine and Biology, effected a few important changes. To begin with, owing to the continuing growth and interest in the field, the publication frequency of the journal has been increased from four to six issues per year as of 1998. This will allow you to keep up to date with the latest research and developments in the field of magnetic resonance imaging and spectroscopy on a more timely basis. Secondly, a Calendar of Events has been introduced into the journal. This will allow you to select those meetings which are of interest to you. Last but not least, so as to allow you to keep abreast of recent literature in the field, book reviews will henceforth be included in the journal. We trust that these changes will meet with your approval, and will serve to heighten your appreciation of the journal. Of course we at Elsevier will, in close cooperation with the Editor-in-Chief, Associate Editors and the Editorial Board of the journal and the European Society for Magnetic Resonance in Medicine and Biology, continue to strive to enhance the position of the journal, and your appreciation of it.
